RFID Expert, Emmett Erwin, Joins EnvisionWare

Atlanta, GA Credited by many as the man who created RFID for libraries, Emmett Erwin has joined EnvisionWare as a Sales Consultant. Headquartered from EnvisionWare's new Pennsylvania Regional Office, Erwin brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to the industry's fastest growing self service company.

Emmett moved from Bibliotheca where he started that company's North American RFID program as President and CEO. Prior to Bibliotheca, Emmett was the Director of the Library Division of Checkpoint. Said Erwin, "The RFID industry is changing rapidly. Companies need creative resources and a wealth of products to serve the move toward single vendor consolidation for self service technologies. I viewed EnvisionWare as the most powerful creative development company and witnessed the Company's growth over the years. The recent acceptance of the industry's most complete, standards-based solution is a testament to the vast resources of this customer-focused organization. Currently, EnvisionWare's combined customer contracts make it the largest force in RFID and self service. From Australia to California and Missouri to Indiana, libraries are adopting EnvisionWare's RFID and AMH systems, often as part of a greater strategy to adopt EnvisionWare's complete line of leading solutions. Couple EnvisionWare's selection as the supplier of the largest RFID and AMH project in North America with an unmatched reputation for customer support, and you have what many regard as the most valuable name in library technology."

Erwin will spearhead EnvisionWare's explosively growing RFID, AMH, and self service circulation business. Al Coalla, Director of Sales, offered these comments, "Emmett is well known, well respected, and remarkably resourceful. He shares EnvisionWare's values and our commitment to customer satisfaction. We are excited and honored to have him join our organization."
