

King County Counts on EnvisionWare® for Reliability and Service

When King County Library System (KCLS) in Washington State was looking for the ideal solution for their computer and print management needs, EnvisionWare quickly rose to the top of their list. "PC & Print Reservation is one of the most impactful and visible systems to our library patrons," said Jed Moffitt, director of information technology services.

"With so many technology initiatives on our plate, we needed an established reliable, and mature system with a team we could count on. EnvisionWare has an outstanding reputation for customer service and dependability. Their system is also flexible enough to handle our unique technology needs, including our open source ILS."

KCLS, voted Library of the Year 2011 by Library Journal and Cengage, is the highest circulating public library system in the United States. The System circulated over 22.4 million items in 2010. EnvisionWare's PC Reservation® and LPT:One™ solutions will serve KCLS as gatekeeper to its one thousand public workstations and laptops in forty-six public libraries.
